We may not look, act or dress alike. We love different taste in food, books, and music. We work at different jobs...enjoy different hobbies...but one thing we have in common. We know what it means to hurt. When life hurts and dreams fade we express our sadness in different ways but we all know what the sting of loved ones lost feels like. Ever wonder why Jesus didn't just tell the people it will be okay and have Lazarus rise? Because he wanted them to know he cared from the heart so he wept with them...I weep with you and pray that the comforter will be there for you during this time to comfort you and let you feel and know God Loves You. With Deepest Sympathy Brenda
