It's been a long time but I'll always remember Ms. Bell's smile and how loving and sweet she was. I only wish I could be a fraction of the woman that she was and have the strength to endure like she did. Just remember that anyone that you have ever loved or touched your heart can never ever really pass away, because of the memories that will always linger in your heart. We sometimes don't say "I Love You" enough to the people in our lives that mean so much. Please say "I Love You" to someone today, while they are Still Here. May God bless, comfort and Keep You.
