It has been 12 years since I lost my mom. The grief is still as bad if not worse as the day she passed. Everyday I think about her. Now I have a child and she never got to hold him. I remember once I smarted off to her. Thought I was going to be bill bad bottom. I made a smart comment then I rode off on my bike. Only moments later to come to a dead stop. Momma was FAST. caught me by the sissy bar and raised the rear tire up so I was just spinning in place. I recently lost a great friend and it has deepened my sadness and grief. I looked at this page and found so many errors that some of the things on it are missing. My poem is gone I wrote for her. Now I will visit my grandmothers obituary. I cant be healed from my grief but I can try to make it to tomorrow. I love you mommy and I miss you. My boy will know and love you even though your not here. Love you the most. p.s. Pretty peved that the website is messed up. Ill keep checking back to see if its fixed!
